WEST POINT CADETS DISMISSED. Falsely Obtained Permission to Leav

A dispatch from West Point, N. Y., yes terday says: Two cadets, members of the coming first class, were summarily dismissed from the United States Military Academy today. They are Stephen B. Verner of Syracuse, N. Y., and Charles S Perry of Iowa. They were court-martialed upon a charge of having falsely obtained permission to leave the post. This permission having been granted them they were subsequently detected by an army officer drinking at a bar in Newburgh. They were dismissed without travel pay, and started for home immediately.

Brig. Gen. F. D. Grant arrived here this afternoon. He was met at the boat landing by Col. Mills, Adjt. Rivers and an escort of cavalry. A salute of eleven gups was fired, and there was a grand review of the corps of eadets in honor of Gen. Grant. The general is here to meet his son, Cadet U. S. Grant of the third class.

The military exercises this evening, given were of an exceptionally interesting character, and greatly delighted the many hundreds of spectators. A sham battle was fought, participated in by every branch of the service on duty at West Point—the infantry, cavalry, artillery and hospital corps. It had the semblance of actual war in every particular, save that of bloodshed. The day's events concluded with a band oncert tonight at the hotel for the board of visitors.

Fifty-six of the fifty-nine young men who were appointed cadets to the academy since March 1 last reported for their en-trance examinations today. Private Cal-vin P. THE MARKETS OF GERMANY

IMPORTANCE SHOWN IN CONSULAR

Great Improvement of Trade in Amer ican Machinery-Demand for Structural Iron

The importance of Germany's markets to the United States is set forth in the latest from "Commercial Relations of the United States," made public yesterday by Frederic Emory, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce of the State Department. Consul Brundage of Aix la Chapelle says there was placed in that city within the last year approximately $250,000 worth of American machinery. The market for structural iron and hardware is large, and the best way to place American goods of this class is through the architects.

Consul Hughes of Coburg says that trade in American agricultural machinery has improved greatly since the local fair, held some months ago, at which these articles were exhibited. Our tools, Mr. Hughes says, simply sell themselves by their su-periority of make, lightness, durability, etc. American locks at last have been introduced and are considered wonderful in their way.

Consul Lieber of Duesseldorf notes that several firms in that city devote them-selves almost exclusively to the importation of American machine tools, and their business is flourishing. Many American articles are exhibited in the stores, such as writing desks, typewriters, petroleum stoves, washing machines and other house hold goods, and all seem to self well. There is a constantly increasing demand for pitch

Consul Harris says that our goods have a solid footing in the Mannheim consular dir-trict, especially in the lines of iron and wood-working machinery, pumps, cash registers, office furniture, photographic supplies, sewing machines, bath tubs, lawn mowers and rakes, shees, lubricating oil. etc. In food supplies canned meats, California fruits, etc., are popular. Consul Sawter of Glauchau says that the Germans regard American progress in the manufacturing of textiles as remarkable. Not only has the American manufacturer adopted every machine, loom or device known in foreign countries that could be used to advantage, but more than this, he has brought ingenuity and enterprise to bear against the slower thoroughfare the German. The employment of the Rabbath spindle, for instance, which makes 10,000 revolutions per minute, has saved American manufacturers, it is estimated, over $100,000,000 since its adoption in 1870. The consul continues:

"Each year records progress in America to the Germans' regret in increasing the output of mills without a relative increase in cost of production, and as no standard is considered too high, improvements are constantly noted in weaving, dyeing and finishing goods, and, in fact, in every branch of the industry. There is no doubt that the American manufacturer spends more money than his competitors in Ger-

"In Saxony for some months there have been rumors of unfavorable European conditions. Manufacturers are keeping their factories running on materials which, excellent in every particular, lack that quality known as novelty, which produces rapid sale at good prices in America. Ger-man manufacturers are almost on the verge of acknowledging defeat and are ready and willing at this moment to take ideas from America. Within the past year American opinions have gained tremendous ascendancy in German and in European circles generally. The once despised American manufacture, the once laughed-at American ideas of dress are now the thing, and this fact is realized by the German manufacturer. American women of wealth and position are positive people in the European markets. They know what they want to buy and insist on getting it. They reject the bizarre productions of German manufacturers and teach them how to make goods smart, effective and neat. Lacking new style, German goods are not now being sought for. the United States have become an article German capital. Germany intends to hold her grip upon manufactur-ing interests in the market, however, and will emulate American ingenuity and en-

ketch Rend by Mr. J. J. Penbody Veteran Organization.

A regular meeting of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association was held Tuesday evening at the engine house, 19th and H streets northwest. A fraternal letter was received from the Louisville veterans. A photograph of the bell of the Northern Liberty Company, mounted on a truck and attended by four veterans, taken on the occasion of the reception to the District regiment on its return from Cuba, was received. It was announced that two of the veterans shown in the picture-Messrs. Walling and Carr-have answered their last alarm. The secretary of the association, Mr. J. J. Peabody, read the first part of his second chapter on the history of the old department. The preceding chapter sketched he history to 1815, when the war had left and the fire organizations disbanded or crippled. The engine houses and appara-tus on Capitol Hill, the Columbia, and at the treasury had been destroyed by the British. Though but few fires had taken place to prompt measures to combat the flery foe, the community had barely resumed its normal condition before steps were taken for the reorganization of the fire companies. Mr. Peabody referred to the act of March 3, 1815, authorizing the organization of a fire company in each of the four wards, 14th and 2d streets west and 4th street east being the dividing lines. This act gave each company the right to elect officers, make rules, &c., conferred power on the officers, the president or vice president of the first company, to arrive at a fire to take charge, preserve order and to compel citizens to assist and disorderly persons to leave, &c. The regulations for household-ers to provide for buckets which were to be inspected semi-annually were retained in this law. It carried an appropriation of $175 to procure ladders, fire hooks, axes, crowbars and leather buckets for the com-

In the National Intelligencer of April 11 1815, a notice was printed calling a meeting of citizens of the first ward for the following evening at the Franklin House for the purpose of organizing a fire company according to a then late law of the corporation. It is not known that the company was organized at that time, but before the close of the following year it had an engine and its appurtenances. That there was a call for a fire service is seen by the card of S. N. Smallwood and Mord Booth in the Intelligencer of May 22, 1815, thank-ing neighbors and fellow citizens most cor-dially for their exertions Saturday mornunited, particularly to those "by whose friendly care and activity they were so immediately removed from the dwellings without the slightest injury." These houses were on Virginia avenue southeast, and

Washington. The advertisement of John Achman, a coppersmith and fire engine maker, on Pennsylvania avenue near the Seven buildings, appeared in the Intelligencer during July. He called attention to an engine for sale on moderate terms. July 21, 1815, a meeting was called at O'Neal's Franklin House, I and 21st streets, to consider the propriety of forming a com-pany and purchasing an engine for the first ward, but no account of the meeting

The city commissioners—Wm. Waters, Henry Herford, Henry Ingle and John W. Brashears—in the Intelligencer of March 18, 1816, gave notice that the second Mon-18, 1816, gave notice that the second Monday in April they would examine the fire buckets the citizens are required to keep, and expressed the hope that they would be relieved of the disagreeable necessity of imposing the penalty fixed by the law.

It would appear, said Mr. Peabody, that about this period the want of organization of companies and the condition of what little apparatus had been procured, engaged the attention of the councils. An engaged the attention of the councils. An act of May 10, 1816, required the mayor to appoint two citizens of the second and third wards, with the commissioner of each of those wards, to examine the enc.

and K streets southeast.

A few weeks after, June 28, 1816, the councils passed an act for the purchase of a fire engine for the first ward, appropriating $1,200 therefor, and for ladders, hooks, etc., and the erection of an engine to cost $300, locating it at the West market, the property to be in charge of the commissioner of the first ward till the organization of a company to man it

LIGHTNING STARTED FIRE.

Origin of Blaze in the Forbidden City in Pekin. A dispatch from Pekin yesterday says: Lightning yesterday struck a building inside the gate of the American end of the Forbidden City, causing a fire. Three buildings were burned. The American and Japanese guards did all possible to prevent a spread of the flames. A heavy rain saved the Forbidden City. One of the buildings burned was a library containing many valuable manuscripts and numerous his torical records of the dynasty.

Li Hung Chang has sent an urgent demand to General Ma to hasten 10,000 Chiis now being evacuated by the allies. The troops of Governor Yuan Shih Kai, who are to occupy Pekin, are reported to be making rapid progress. They have reached Tsang-chou, and are expected at Pekin within fifteen days.

The Franco-German government of Pao-ting-fu has been abolished, and the native authorities have resumed jurisdiction. The ministers have informed the Chines plenipotentiaries that they will refuse to permit provincial examinations in Pekin or allow metropolitan or national examina tions, but not at points where provincial examinations are not permitted
